

Farm Succession Planning Workshop

November 13, 2015
12:30 – 4:00 p.m.
New Milford Railroad Station
11 Railroad Street
New Milford, CT

Parking behind the railroad station.

Hear from these professionals:

Rachel Murray, CT Field Agent, Land For Good
Cam Weimer, Connecticut Dept. of Agriculture
Bob Parsons, UVM Extension Ag Economist
Kip Kolensinkas, Conservation Consultant

A FREE, interactive workshop designed for Connecticut farmers seeking to better understand the options, resources, and steps to transferring your farm business and/or farmland.

It's never too early—or too late—to plan for your future and the future of your farm. Join us for this free workshop for information on how to transition your farm to the next generation or owner. Learn about estate planning, lease arrangements, preservation options, and more.

Hear first-hand from a Western Connecticut farmer about their transfer planning efforts.

Established farmers and farmland owners of any age, as well as junior generation and beginning farmers are invited to attend. There will be time for individual assistance from professional advisors.

A free light lunch will be provided. Come meet, eat and learn with your fellow farmers and farmland owners. Reserve your seat today by calling (603)357-1600 or online at landforgood.org/rsvp.

Space is limited!
Registration is required.

FREE! Reserve your seat online at landforgood.org/rsvp.

United States Department of Agriculture
National Institute of Food and Agriculture
This material is based on work supported by USDA/
NIFA under Award Number 2012-49200-20031.

As funded in part by the John Merk Fund.